Dear Kenny Pratt,

We Trolls have been sitting under our bridge waiting for a call from you and our phone has simply not rang. We noticed that you haven't shipped anything with us since 05/15/2006. We are concerned and would like to know if there is anything that we might be able to do to continue moving your freight? If you simply haven't had any shipments since the last shipment, we must just be insecure and we ask your forgiveness. We sit under our bridge all day long waiting for shipments. When a customer stops shipping, we get worried about what might have gone wrong. We also worry about how we are going to pay for our bridge.

Our goal is to save you time and money on all of your domestic Air, LTL, and Truckload shipments in the United States. Without you, we are bored. We have nothing to do. We hunger for shipments. We will even beg for them (as evidenced by this letter).

Please call us to quote and schedule your next shipment.

You can also do quotes and pickups online at www.trolltransport.com
